

READ ME FIRST

Installing Spartan 08 for Mac OS X

To install Spartan 08 on your hard drive, insert the Spartan 08 CD into your CD-ROM drive. Open the Spartan 08 CD by double clicking on its icon, and drag the "Spartan 08" icon to your hard disk. (You may drag the "Spartan 08" icon across to the "Applications" folder on the CD, and it will be moved to the Applications folder on your computer.)

There are two other data folders on the Spartan Installation CD:

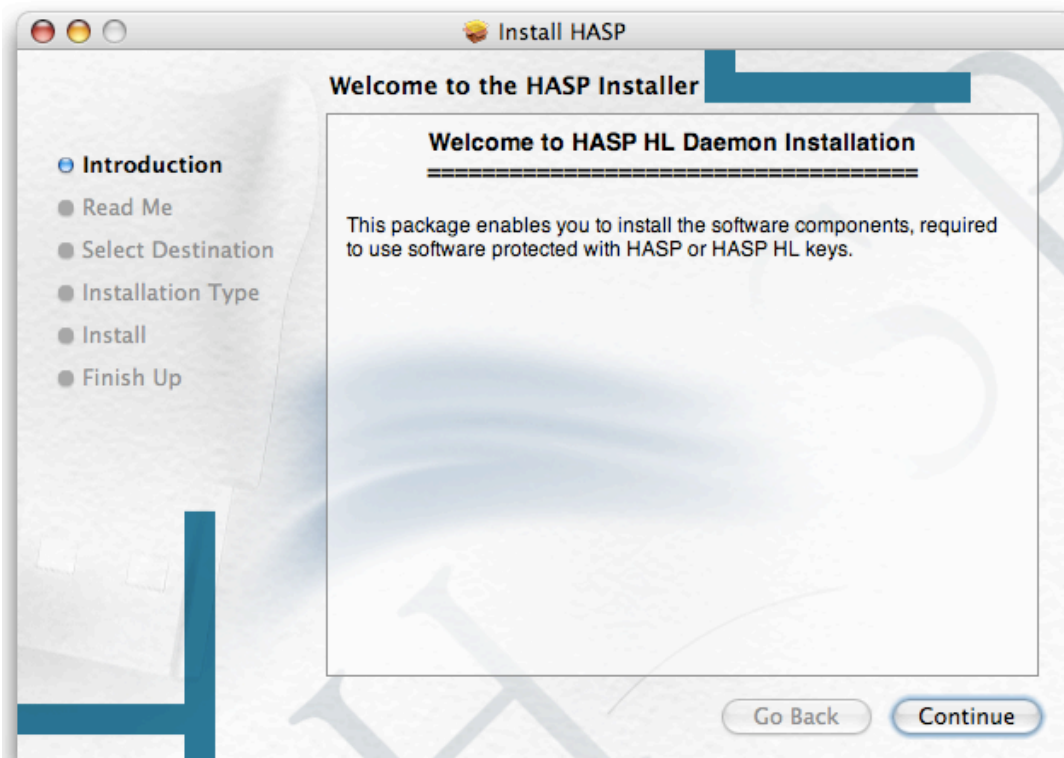

The "Library" folder contains collections of useful molecular fragments that can be added to the "More" pop-up menu in the Model Kit (see p. 222 in the User's Guide). Also, all of the completed tutorial exercises from the User's Guide can be found in the "Tutorials" folder.

Spartan 08 Licensing

Spartan 08 supports three licensing methods:

- Local USB hardware keys (a small device attached to the computer's USB port)
- NetHASP licensing (the computer "checks out" a license from a pool available on the network)
- Access codes (which are time-limited for demonstration/evaluation purposes).

If you are using a local USB key, you will need to install drivers to support the key before starting Spartan 08 for the first time. UNPLUG ANY LOCAL HASP KEYS attached into this computer, then locate the "Hardware Key Drivers" folder on the CD and double click the "HASP Universal Installer" icon. A window will be displayed:

Click Continue, entering your password when prompted. Quit the Installer when installation is complete, re-insert any local hardware keys, and you will be ready to start Spartan '08.

If you are using a demonstration access code, you will need to connect the computer to the Internet when you enter the code to activate the temporary license. (After activation, Spartan doesn't need an internet connection unless you want to perform Protein Data Bank searches- see page 352 of the manual.)

Launching and Licensing Spartan 08

When Spartan 08 is started for the first time, it will display a setup window:

Select your licensing method. If you are using a demonstration access code, another window will be displayed to enter the access code sequence and validate the code over the internet. Click "Done" and you will be presented with the Spartan '08 main window.